2001–2002 Graduate Catalog

All colleges, schools, divisions, and departments establish certain academic requirements that must be met before a degree is granted. Advisors, directors, department chairs, and deans are available to help the student understand these requirements, but the student is responsible for fulfilling them. At the end of a student's course of study, if requirements for graduation have not been satisfied, the degree is not granted. For this reason, it is important for all students to acquaint themselves with all regulations, to be informed throughout their college careers, and to be responsible for completing requirements. Courses, programs, and requirements described in the catalog may be suspended, deleted, restricted, supplemented, or changed in any other manner, at any time, at the sole discretion of the university and the Arizona Board of Regents. The catalog does not establish a contractual relationship but summarizes the total requirements the student must currently meet before qualifying for a faculty recommendation to the Arizona Board of Regents to award a degree.

Arizona State University reserves the right to add, amend, or revoke, without notice, any of the materials—information, requirements, regulations—published in this catalog.

The catalog is also available on the Web at www.asu.edu/aad/catalogs. Graduate admissions information is available at www.asu.edu/graduate. Address requests for additional information to

I extend a warm welcome to new and continuing graduate students at Arizona State University. Our advanced programs are a source of pride for our students, alumni, and faculty. We offer 48 doctoral and 91 master's degree programs, supported by 1,600 faculty members whose innovative teaching and groundbreaking research are recognized nationally and internationally.

A leading center for research and technological development, ASU partners with the private sector to advance the economic competitiveness and quality of life in Arizona. Benefiting from the rich resources and intellectual capital existing in the Phoenix metropolitan area, ASU is a key contributor in developing the industries and services of the New Economy. As one of the major metropolitan research universities in America, we take pride in our success in matching university talents and expertise with the vision of community leaders to shape the future.

Our faculty are at the forefront of reforming doctoral education. ASU is one of 12 institutions in the U.S. participating in the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation's Responsive Ph.D. program to improve doctoral education in the arts and sciences. We emphasize professional development through our Preparing Future Faculty program, one of the first in the nation, and our Preparing Future Professionals program for students headed toward nonacademic careers. A prominent feature of graduate education at ASU is the wide range of opportunities for students and faculty to work together on interdisciplinary, collaborative research projects.

We are proud of our commitment to graduate education: to prepare our students to become scholars and professional leaders in a new century marked by constant change, rapid technological advances, and rich traditions. Our partnership with ASU students provides a nurturing environment to enhance their intellectual and personal growth. Please call on us if we may be of assistance.

I wish you every success in the pursuit of your goals at Arizona State University.

Cordially,
